A PROFESSIONAL PRODUCTION CREATED
BY SCOTLAND'S EARLY-CAREER THEATRE-MAKERS.

Framework Theatre exists to support emerging artists to create successful and sustainable careers in Scottish theatre. We are delighted to be producing a show which provides 10, openly-recruited paid roles for early-career theatre-makers in Scotland. It feels like a really special platform to expand skills and confidence, as well as showcase their work to encouraging peers and industry professionals on the phenomenal Traverse stage!

Besides the incredible opportunities the production provides, we believe Play Pretend is a relevant, exciting and engaging piece of theatre from emerging playwright Katie Fraser. This is a play which weaves characters from Scottish history through a very relevant, all-too-familiar story about power and the theatre industry. It has timeless feminism at its core and ultimately empowers anyone who may feel unheard.

Thank you for joining us to support a stellar group of emerging artists. On behalf of the whole team - we hope you enjoy the show.
